

I thank the Commission for the opportunity to file a comment in the matter of RM-10740:

I request that this request be dismissed (and without prejudice to a later re-submission should the parties not resolve their differences in co-operative manner in a matter of a few months). I believe that the current 60M allocation serves as an example that all parties need to observe for a few months and consider in their activities and future rule making requests to the Commission first. Hopefully all will agree that additional education and conversation is better than additional technical rules being imposed by the Commission.

Should deliberate interference be come a fact and documented before the Commission by any party, current FCC rules should of course be applied to the full extent of the law. In the mean time, I encourage the Commission to let the parties cool their heels for a while and reconsider their positions for a short period before the Commission acts in this matter.

Respectively,
